

Multinational Federalism: Problems and Prospects

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements

Introduction. Multinational Federalism: Questions and Queries

Michel Seymour with the collaboration of Alain-G. Gagnon

Part one. Theoretical Matters

Chapitre 1. Multinational Federalism in Multinational Federation

Michael Burgess

Chapitre 2. Three theories of liberalism for the three theories of federalism. A Hegelian turn

Ferran Requejo

Chapitre 3. What Theorists of Nationalism have to Learn from Multinational States

Philip Resnick

Part Two. The European Experiment

Chapitre 4. The European Union, a Plurinational Federation in sensu cosmopolitico

Hugues Dumont

Chapitre 5. Reforging the Nation. Britain, Scotland and the Crisis of Unionism

Michael Keating

Chapitre 6. The United Kingdom's Experiment in Asymmetric Autonomy, and the Lessons

Learned

John McGarry

Chapitre 7. Does Devolution Foster Separatism? The Case of Catalonia

Montserrat Guibernau

Chapitre 8. Politics and public sphere in Belgium. What the case of a federal multilingual country can contribute to the debate on transnational public spheres. And vice versa.

Dave Sinardet

Part Three. Other Case Studies

Chapitre 9. Asymmetry and Change in the Canadian Federation: The Limits of Political Accommodation in a Multination State

Raffaele Iacovino and Jan Erk

Chapitre 10. The Consequences of Drafting Constitutions for Constituent States in Federal Countries

John Dinan

Chapitre 11. Should Indian Federalism Be Called Multinational?

Rajeev Bhargava

Conclusion

Michel Seymour with the collaboration of Alain-G. Gagnon

Notes on the Contributors